Fatal Auto Accident

Frominent Editor's family, of Deming, the victims

The most horrifying automobile tragedy that has occurred in this section happened in Deming at 6:35 Thursday evening, January 27, when a large touring car driven by George Crichton, a linotype operator on the Deming Headlight, was struck at the Gold Avenue crossing by a switch engine, instantly killing the Misses Louise, Edna and Sophronia Vallandigham, the three daughters of Editor E. R. Vallandigham, of the Deming Headlight, fatally injuring Mr. Crichton and inflicting serious but not necessarily fatal injuries on Mr. Vallandigham.

The auto party was on the way to the Vallandigham ranch several miles north of Deming when the accident occurred. The flagman at the Gold Avenue crossing flagged the car which stopped. Directly in front of the auto on the Santa Fe track, was a string of coal cars, stationary. After waiting a moment or two, the auto dashed forward across the track, Crichton evidently believing that he could make the crossing. As the auto passed the string of stationary coal cars a switch engine on the adjoining track jumped out on the terror-stricken party just as the machine ran onto the track. The auto was hit toward the rear and rolled over and over, with the occupants. Vallandigham, who was riding in the front seat with Crichton, was thrown clear and this no doubt saved his life. The other occupants were rolled along with the auto, which was smashed to splinters. The three young ladies in the back seat were killed almost instantly and their bodies mangled. Crichton sustained fractures of the leg, arm and ribs and severe internal injuries which are believed will prove fatal. Mr. Vallandigham had two ribs broken and sustained other injuries which, however, are not fatal. The rear of the tender on the switch engine struck the auto.

The accident created much excitement, not only in Deming, but the surrounding country as well, when news was flashed over the wires on Thursday night. Mr. Vallandigham and his daughters were well known to a number of Silver City people, who were greatly shocked at the news. The oldest daughter, Louise, aged 19, had been teaching school near Deming. The other daughters, Edna, and Sophronia, were aged 16 and 13 respectively. The family lived on a ranch several miles north of Deming and the father and three daughters were in the habit of riding to and from town in the auto of Mr. Crichton, who is a linotype operator on the Deming Headlight. Mr. Crichton is a former employee of the Enterprise force, having worked here in the fall of 1912. Upon leaving the Enterprise he went to Deming, where he accepted a position as linotype operator on the Deming Graphic, later joining the Headlight force. He was an expert operator and was aged 25. He was popular among a large circle of friends in Deming.

SKETCH OF WILLIAM S. HART

Star of "The Disciple"

William S. Hart, whose methods have been a large factor in reviving the popularity of "Westerns" has just been signed to a long term contract by Thomas H. Ince. This is in recognition of his work in "The Disciple," which will be seen at the Dixie on Monday, February 7th.

The renewed popularity of "Western" film plays due to Hart and Ince's energy has curiously enough brought about the return of the "drama of the plains" and of the heroes and bad men of a decade ago. Dustin Farnum, who starred in "The Virginian," and Mr. Hart, who succeeded him in the title role; Frank Campeau, who was Trampas in the same play, and Frank Keenan, who played Jack Rance in "The Girl of the Golden West," are all now Triangle Stars.

Old playgoers will remember Mr. Hart as the Messala of "Ben Hur" when it was first produced. He was also the originator of the role of Cash Hawkins in "The Squaw Man."

In "The Disciple," Mr. Ince's newest and latest play starring Mr. Hart, he creates the part of Jim Houston, the "shootin' iron" Parson, who comes to Barren Gulch to establish a church.

Mr. Ince promises a greater sensation that the rainstorm produced in "The Iron Strain" in the realistic thunder and lightning storm in "The Disciple." A symphonic storm to accompany these scenes has been composed by Wedgwood Nowell, and it is declared by those who have enjoyed a private view of the picture to lend great force to the effect.

Brandies Nominated for Supreme Bench

Louis D. Brandies, of Boston, receives the nomination for a place on the Supreme Court bench made vacant by the death of the late associate Justice Lamar. Mr. Brandies came into the spotlight some six years ago when Gifford Pinchot, former Chief Forester of the United States, was having his noted controversy with then Secretary Bal-finger, of the post office department. He appeared as chief counsel for the forces opposing the former Secretary. Louis D. Brandies is a man that has been much in public life. He was born sixty years ago in Louisville, Kentucky, at which place and Harvard he received his education. He is a man who has written much, and as a jurist is considered special authority on public franchises, life insurance, wage earners' insurance, scientific management, labor problems and the trust question. He was at one time considered for the appointment of Attorney General in President Wilson's cabinet.

MOSES ITEMS

W. B. Plunkett was very sick but is reported better now.

Mr. and Mrs. Merritt were visitors at Mrs. Bughs Sunday.

The weather man still keeps us guessing but does not carry out any of his threats.

Notwithstanding the inclemency of weather there was quite a good attendance at Sunday School last Sunday.

W. B. Howard has returned from the live stock show at Denver and reports having had an enjoyable time and saw lots of good stock.

The little daughter of Mr. Emmet Mock died last week from diphtheria. We have heard of no other cases, and trust that there will not be an epidemic of it.

In a number of counties in adjoining states county agents are being very successfully and profitably employed. So why not one for Union county?

There is quite a bit of telephone talk in the country just now. There is to be a meeting at Dobe school house Friday night to make an effort to organize a company. Let the good work go on as every rural community needs a telephone system.

We wish to saw "Hurrah for Slat's Rankin, may his tribe ever increase." If every one would do as Slat's has done this would be a better world in which to live, i.e. do something to brighten the path or lighten the burden of and bring a little pleasure to those whom are less fortunately situated than we. Slat's has a heart. Its on the right side and working beautifully.

To our minds there is no question about the advisability of Union county employing a farm demonstrator. The only question is getting a man who is capable and competent. If a demonstration agent enabled each farmer to produce only one dollar's worth more crops, poultry, produce or livestock we would be getting big returns on our investment in employing him. Mike
